IRRIGATION TO BOOST VALUES OF WEBER LAND

Creation of District for This County Will Have Farreaching Effect

While much has been said and written about the Weber county irrigation district, embracing Weber county, together with a section of Box Elder county, few comprehend the enormity of the enterprise.

Since the election held August 10, which decided that the Weber county irrigation district would become a reality, rather than idle talk of dreamers. new era of prosperity, not only for Weber county, but for northern Utah has started.

FIRST USERS OF WATER

Pioneers, entering Ogden valley and the Great Salt lake, were the first users of irrigation water for crops. Land was plentiful. Water was adequate for their needs and canals were opened on such lands as were easily available. As settlements became towns, and towns developed into cities, all of which drew on the agricultural resources of the country for subsist-tence, the water question became acute. About twenty years ago the limit was reached and all lands irrigable under the complicated distribution systems, were growing crops.

Fifty thousand acres of Weber county land represented highest point of attainment under the present irriga tion system. Lands fully as capable of growing crops, but handlcapped by reason of water shortage, could not be developed. And from 50,000 acres of cropped land, Weber county farmers collected revenues approximately four million dollars last year, while the inanufacturers, including canners, sugar manufacturers and other local consumers of local products, derived approximately $6,000,000. The limit, however, had been reached.

ENVIABLE POSITION The decision to create an irrigation district, embracing the whole of Weber county, places Ogden in an enviable sition in Utah

Under the district it is estimated that double the present cultivated acreage can be obtained. Approximately 20,000 acres within twenty miles of Ogden, the majority of the land less distant than that, and a portion of the Jands within Ogden city limits, will be changed from doubtful dry farm Ogden's First Real Effort to Judge Roberts Orders Ogden Ogden Man Will Preside At Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and luster or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the bair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attrac-tive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mix-ture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and luster and gives it an appearance of abundance.-Advertise
